PRISONERS IN POLICE COURT GREETED BY FIREWORKS.

But the Exhibition Was on the Outside - Procession Before

The reports of exploding firecrackers in the vicinity of the "Temple of Justice" this morning reminded the twenty-two persons lined up in the dock in Judge Scott's branch of the court that today was the Fourth of July, and that Young America was having his one good time in the year. Several of the prisoners were so fortunate as to be released, the testimony not being strong enough to warrant the court in holding them. Others, however, were sent to the farm in default of the payment of

A number of those arrested during yesterday and last night, rather than spend the night behind the bars, deposited collateral for their release. These numbered about sixty, and the collateral deposited set forth in quest of a minister or magistrate, engaging the services of the one first amounted to nearly $300.

The majority of them rather than stand trial forfeited their money. Court was scheduled to convene at 8:30 o'clock, but it was thirty minutes later when Judge Scott mounted the bench. The

Thomas Jenkins, a man with defective hearing, was the first in line, and after being arraigned on a charge of vagrancy a policeman reported to the court that Jenkins was asleep on a vacant lot in South Washington last night. "Do you want to say anything?" Bailiff

Kendig asked the man.
"Yes, sir," he replied.
"Your honor," explained Jenkins, "I'm from Philadelphia, and just came here yesterday and I went to bed on the lot because I didn't have the price of a bed elsewhere." "What will you do if I let you go?" Judge Scott asked.

"Leave the city," was the reply.

"Take his personal bonds to leave during the day, Mr. Harper," his honor directed.

"This man is a pensioner, and has been drunk since he received his pension," Polleeman Murphy said, after George Evans had been arraigned. had been arraigned on a vagrancy charge. Evans declined to make a statement, and will spend one month on the farm in default of a fine of $10, which was imposed.

Love of the "Flowing Bowl." William Cleary was in the tolls as a result of his fondness for the "flowing bowl." "What do you know about William?" Judge Scott asked Policeman Allen.

"He was drunk on Pennsylvania avenue last night, and I locked him up," the officer answered. "Is that all?"
"No. sir. He's been locked up at the station house so many times during the last ten days that it has become his regular lodging house. "That's right, your honor. I was drunk, but I'm no vag.," Cleary said when called on for an explanation.

"Ten dollars or thirty days," the court said as the finale. George Robinson and Richard Johnson, colored, had a misunderstanding over a "growler" while on 10th street northwest last night, and this morning were charged been punished sufficiently, having been locked up over night, and they were re-

Mary Thompson, a resident of Willow Tree alley, who has appeared in court at intervals during the last ten years, was in the toils on a charge of disorderly conduct committed while on B½ street southwest last night. She asked to be given her liberty, saying she would do better, but the court decided that she would have to pay a fine of $10 or remain in the workhouse for one month.

His Memory Bad.

"I was drinking last night, and as a result my memory is bad," James Merritt, colored, declared.

"I guess the officer who arrested you can tell us what happened," the assistant corlives in the Cameron flats, was knocked poration counsel told Merritt. The policeman recited that Merritt was drunk last night and chased his wife out of their home, near the corner of 1st and O streets northwest.
"We'll have to take his word," Merritt remarked, "because I don't remember what occurred, but if you'll excuse me this time I'll behave after this." "You ought to ask your wife to forgive you," the court told Merritt.

. "I will, your honor; she is here in court, and I will ask her forgiveness."

The woman came around to the witness stand, and James asked her to forgive him. He vowed to become a better husband, and was thereupon released on his personal bonds, and in company with his better half departed from the court building. The remaining cases were disposed of ac-cording to the evidence, and court adjourned at 10:30 o'clock, giving the judge and attaches an opportunity to enjoy the re-

Code Makes Change in the Form of the Paper. The act to amend an act entitled "An act to establish a code of law for the District of Columbia," approved last Monday, has made a change of some importance in regard to the form of marriage license in the District. The new law amends section 1203 of the code by striking out the first five lines and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"Form of license-Licenses to perform the marriage ceremony shall be addressed to some particular minister or magistrate authorized by section 1288 hereof to perform the marriage ceremony." Section 1293, unamended, provided that the form of license should be, in part: "To

Now, it is necessary for the clerk of the Court to issue the license to "Rev. John Doe," or to "Justice of the Peace John Doe," designating a particular minister or magistrate. ## CHARGED WITH BIGAMY

MRS. MORRISON WEDS WHILE HER HUSEAND IS LIVING.

Allegation Made by George Day, Husband No. 2 Mr. Morrison Takes Action.

Precinct Detective Evans of the second precinct is looking for a young man and woman who are charged with having committed bigamy. The man is George M. Day, who is apparently less than twentyany minister or other person authorized to five years old, and the woman is Mrs. celebrate marriages in the District of Co-Emma Josephine Morrison, wife of Francis Morrison, who lives in the neighborhood of 3d and M streets northwest. There is a warrant out for the man, also charging him with having committed perjury in making oath that Mrs. Morrison was a single woman, when, it is stated, he knew she was married. Mrs. Morrison is alleged formally to have committed bigamy by marrying Day while her husband, Francis Morrison, was living. The woman's husband swore out the warrant for the arrest of Day. The persons named in the warrants as defendants were notified of the issuance of the warrants.

Mr. Morrison, it is stated, has sent his wife away, as he is anxious to protect his family name, as far as possible, and avoid a public trial. The woman's husband and Day were friends, and Day lived in the house of the Morrisons. Mrs. Morrison, it is alleged, has informed her husband of her love for the young man and a divorce was love for the young man, and a divorce was suggested as the only means which would enable her to become his wife. She de-clined, however, it is declared, to wait for the divorce court; and after Day obtained the license a minister tied the knot. On behalf of Day, it is claimed the woman informed him she was not married, but that she had lived with Morrison as his wife. After the marriage ceremony had been performed, it is stated, Day realized that there was trouble in store for him. He was told of the marriage in Chicago of Francis Morrison and Emma Josephine Curtis and he promptly obtained from the Chicago authorities at transactive the Chicago authorities a transcript of the record of marriage. He was separated from his bride of a few days and sought redress in the court by swearing out the war-
